

CYCLING WEEKLY - THURSDAY JANUARY 25th 2007

CatEye Strada £24.99

CATEYE'S Strada computer is clearly influenced by the sleek, minimalist designs of the newest iPods and mobile phones. It's so thin that if you turn it sideways it almost disappears! Well, almost. The head unit itself weighs just 17g. But the screen is relatively huge, taking up most of the 4x3cm overall area; and the digits are big to match. CatEye's trendy designers have put the mode button, which operates everything, underneath, so you press on the computer itself as if you were clicking an Apple mouse.

The Strada has all the functions — current, max and average speeds, an odometer, trip distance, ride and elapsed time and a 24hr clock. There's a pacing arrow, dual tyre size option and the whole thing mounts without tools and fits any size of bar or stem.

This computer is just the coolest; it's just a shame it's not cordless. SS

Contact:

Trisports 01462 683615

www.trisports.co.uk

